

Handwritten Persian text, likely a letter or manuscript. The text is written in a cursive style (Nasta'liq) and is oriented vertically on the page. It appears to be a single continuous block of text, possibly a letter or a portion of a larger work. The ink is dark, and the paper shows some signs of age and wear.